A LITTLE BIT ABOUT US

VanLife Travels is a website created by Steve and Sandra Timewell who will be travelling the whole of Europe and beyond in our Adria Compact motorhome

We will be experiencing full time van life in our latter years of life

We want to see (and share) if it can be done by a slightly older couple

Our whole experience will be shared through the website in the form of regular video blogs along with a growing library of information, tips and guides for people with similar interests

Our audience will be people who want to experience van life overseas

Our aims:

- To provide honest reviews of our experiences, good and bad
- To document places we visit, good and bad
- To explain what van life is really like

Steve and Sandra have some experience of travelling in Europe and lived in Spain for 8 years, many years ago. Whilst we are not daunted by this new adventure, full time van life is new to us
